Your top priority for disaster recovery is to recover the applications and data that are critical to your company's survival as fast as possible.

This is crucial to the survival of your business.

43% of companies were immediately put out of business by a "major loss" of computer records.

51% permanently closed their doors within two years.

That means that only 6 percent of companies survive longer than two years after losing data!

So ask yourself these 2 questions:

1. When was the last time your backup system was tested?
2. If your computer system failed, or a disaster struck, how quickly can your business be "back in business"?

If you're NOT sure, our team of experts will work with you to put together a disaster recovery plan that meets your business needs and your budget.
